THEY ALL CAME BACK

None of the Drivers Heard the Starter Say "Go."

IT WAS AN EXCITING DAY

Jockeys Exchanged, Two Stable Boys Engage in a Fight and One Mutual Pays $109.60-Events and the Results.

Sensations were not lacking in the races as they were run yesterday at the Anaconda track. Excitement and incident furnished amusement and interest throughout the afternoon. First was the flasco of the second heat in the trotting race. The first heat had been run in good time and by the way it ended gave promise of making one of the best races of the meeting. When the horses were called out for the second heat, they scored once or twice and at the third time came under the wire in a fair start. Starter Mc-Master cried "go!" and away they went almost to the quarter post, when to the surprise of every one all the drivers slowed up and started back. They had not heard the "word" and were returning. The grand stand gave a shout of amazement, but the horsemen tending the trotters yelled, "Go on! Go on!" each to his respective driver, and they scampered across the paddock waving their arms like windmills in signals to the drivers.

Parks, behind Ben Hur, was among the first to catch on, and he wheeled about and started on round the track. Stoner, with Almax, was not far behind, and Lady Director was off right speedily. went almost to the quarter post, when stoker, with Amax, was not tar behind, and Lady Director was off right speedily.

Chris Petersen, who was driving Holger, had started back to the wire, and was several lengths behind when the others started on. He came back to wire and came under first. The other horses made the heat. Lady Director making a pretty race under the wire, Lady winning the heat. The judges had to deliberate over this situation for some time. The complication of affairs was unusual. Sometimes one driver may not hear the start, but it is seldom that all fail to hear it. Then Holger had not helped matters any by returning instead of going on around the track. It would be manifestly unfair to declare the heat off and permit Holger to trot with the rest in the succeeding heats when she had not traveled as far as they had by missing a heat.

The flunk of Holger jeopardized the bets that had been placed on her for the heat and for the race. After a long consultation the judges decided the matter under the rules of the association declaring Lady Director winner of the heat, Ben Hur second, Almax third and W. A. Sanborn fourth, Holger distanced. All bets on the heat were ordered off.

The next sensation was made by the were ordered off.

The next sensation was made by the judges taking down the jockeys who were up on Minnie and Quicksilver. Russell dismounted and Burlingame took Minnie: Evans got off of Quicksilver and Sullivan got on. Just as Burlingame was about to mount Minnie she acted ugly and in rearing and plunging threw herself, and the man who stood at her head was nearly caught beneath her. He was not hurt, however, and the horses got off safely to the post.

Shortly after this excitement died away the stable boys fought a round of two near the betting ring, and this made the crowd surge all one way for a few minutes.

While the horses for the final trot were scoring Dennis got gay and jumped about breaking a suiky and dumping Chris Petersen out backwards. He held to the lines and a new bike was brought out. The crowd was about the same in point of numbers as were present the previous day. The betting was not gamey except on the running races. On these there was considerable plung-ing. The talent tumbled hard when Hal Fisher beat the favorites, Minnie S., Quicksilver and Minnie. Only 24 mutual tickets were out, each of which Seventeenth Race.

Ransom Wilkes, Orphan Dick and Justina were drawn from the race and still there remained five to start. Of the five Lady Director and Holger were the choice for first place of the men with money to back their opinion. Lady Director brought $20, Holger $10, field $5, Almax $5.

The start in the first heat was well made, with Ben Hur at the pole, Holger second position and Lady Director third. These horses lead to the quarter and then Almax pulled up alongside of Holger and they had a brush around the quarter. Then Lady Director succeeded Almax and kept Holger company in a close race at the last Ransom Wilkes, Orphan Dick and company in a close race at the last turn. Down the stretch they came, Lady getting the whip and Holger winning by a length easy and strong. Sanborn broke at the half mile and Ben Hur at the first quarter. They finished as tailenders in the chase.

Mutuals paid $22.15. Time, 2:23½.

The second heat was practically no heat at all, though under the rules it had to be a duly credited heat unless there was some sign of fraud, and of That there was none, unless the wind stole the go which McMaster called out. But that could not be proved, for the grand stand heard it, the timers heard it, and the hostlers heard it back of the judges' stand. The drivers did not, however, and Lee Shaner said it was the first time in his ex-perience that he had failed to catch go when the starter said it. But none of them heard it yesterday and were of them heard it yesterday and were all willing to return to the grand stand until waved on by their attendants. Lady Director, Almax and Ben Hur made the race from the quarter pole and though they had lost time they made as good a finish as before.

Time, 3:48½.

The third heat was a contest between Almax and Lady Director, but at the half the race was over, the Lady leading the procession. Time, 2:30. Sanborn was distanced. Mu-tuals paid $6.95.

The last heat was a repetition of the third around the track, and to the finish Lady coming under the wire in an easy jog, in the time 2:30. Mutuals paid $6.65. Summary: Trotting, 2:40 class, purse

The favorites were Quicksilver at $10, Mamie S. $20 and Minnie $7; Ginger sold slowly at $5 and the field dragged at $10. There were eight starters faced the flag and with such a field it was not surprising that there was delay in starting. After one or two false starts all got away except Minnie who unfortunately was left at A. King's.

the post. They went to the quarter stretch in a bunch and then out of the ruck came Hal Fisher, that old riscal who has dumped the talent oft bei "e. He had a running streak on yestera ty and he ran as though the devil was behind him. His Satanic majesty was not there, but a whole field of flyers came clattering at his heels. Carrie Crooks was at his flank and Ginger under Paget's whip and spur made a noble effort for the wire, but could not pass Hal's flying heels. Mutuals paid $109.60. Time, :56.

This was a selling race and when it was over the winner, who had been listed at $100, was put up at auction. Strangely no one wanted to buy and the owner kept him at his own price. Summary:

The next race was hard to guess also, for it contained a fine list of the bang tails. Verdi Paul and Miss Elm were Don't miss the Saile's park picnic next Sunday, as the season is getting tails. Verdi Paul and Miss Elm were favorites, the speculators buying Sitka and the field. The start was a straggling go, but in the finish Miss Elm had close companions in Verdi Paul and Carnot. Sitka, the sister of Spokane, who made her first race in several years, was early out of the race. Sleeping Child was drawn before the start was made. Mutuals paid $13.15. The Special Trot.

The Special Trot.

This was a short race, though it was arranged for the three out of five heats. Dennis had no trouble in taking three heats straight and distanced Monte and Suffolk. He sold as favorite in the pools at $10 to $5 for the field. Justina, who took the first heat, was substituted for Montana Boy, by consent of the competitors. No mutuals were sold on the last heats.
